

John Elliott Woolford
Compiled by Diane Wolford Sheppard

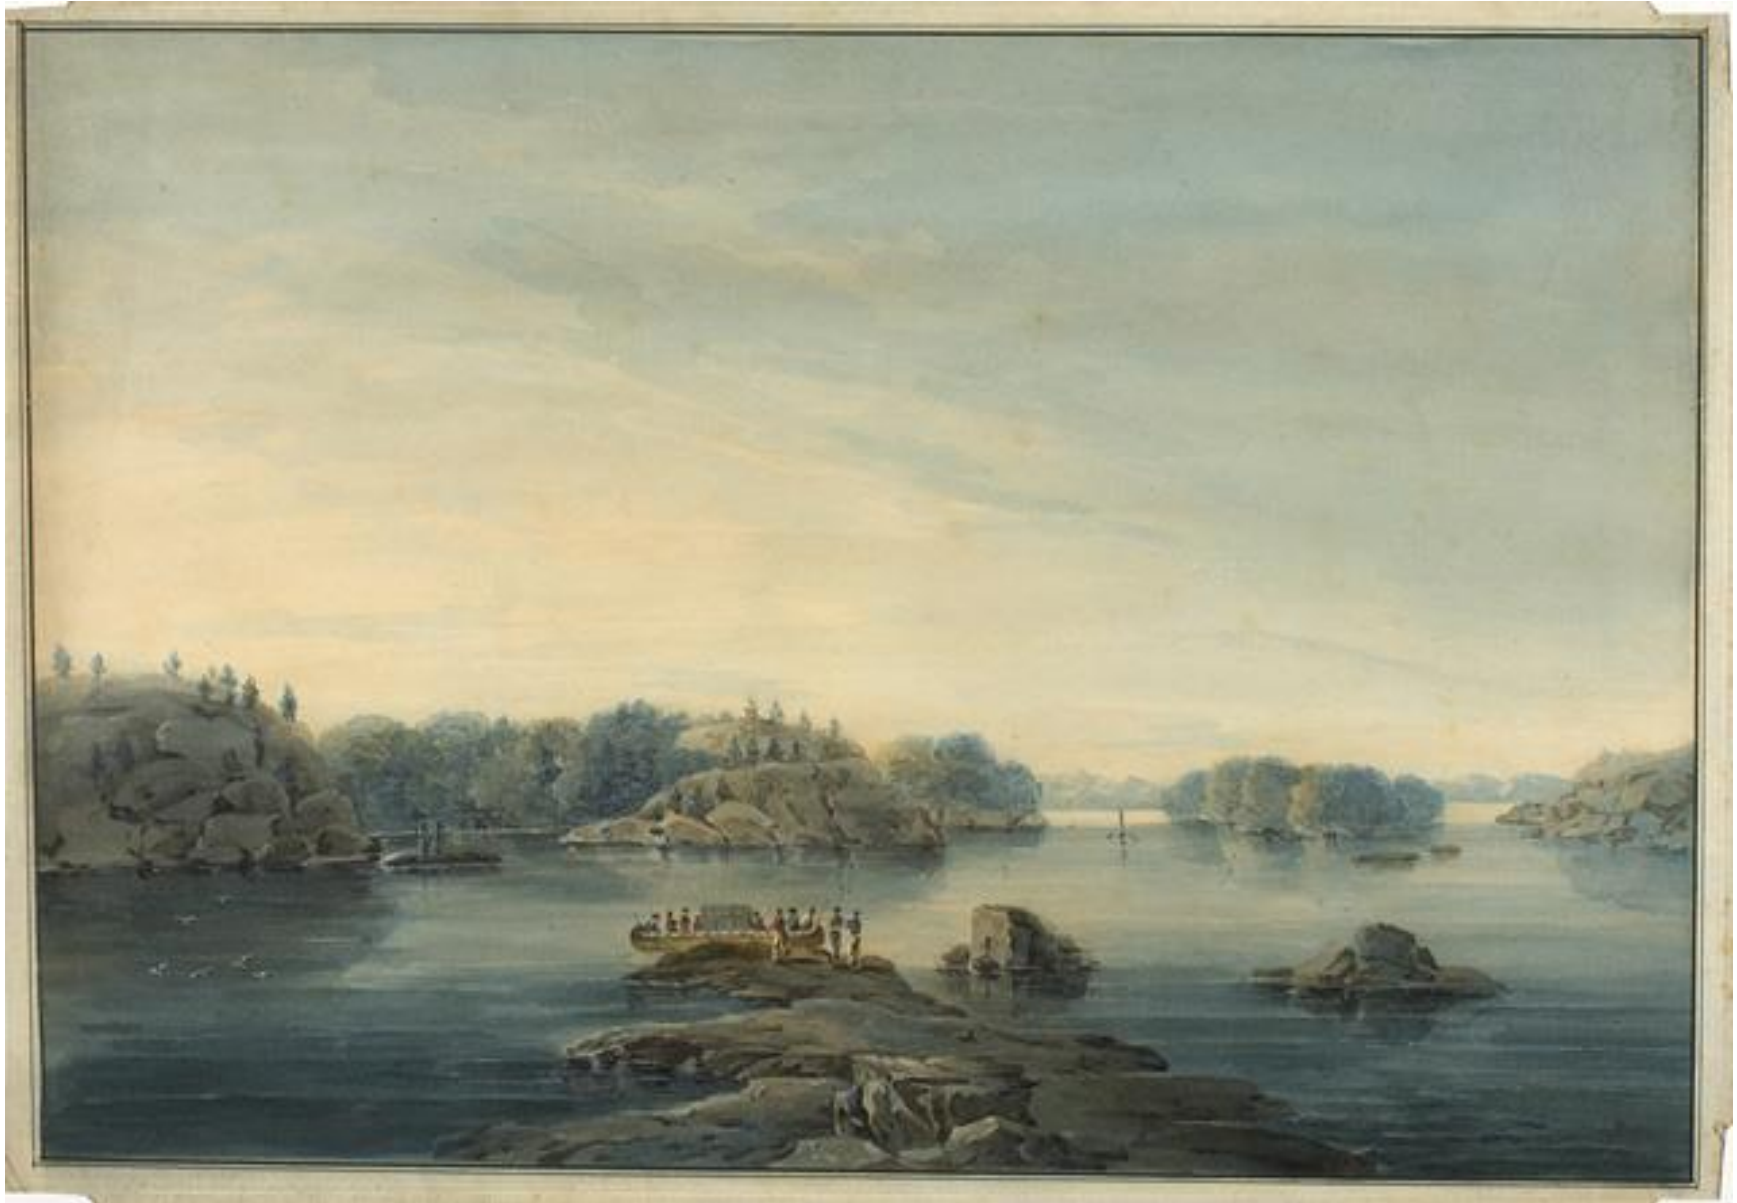

John Elliott Woolford was born 1778 in London, England, and died 1866 in Fredericton, N.B. He was an artist, architect, and topographical draftsman. In 1821, he accompanied George Ramsay, earl of Dalhousie and Governor General of Canada on his tour of Lower Canada and Upper Canada as far as Lake Superior. You can read his biography at the Dictionary of Canadian Biography Online.¹

All of the following representative paintings depict scenes on the Great Lakes or on the Ottawa River route to Lake Huron. In addition to Bing and Google Images, you can view Woolford's art at the following site:
